DISCATHON REVISITED A second day of Discathon prelims has been added to today's schedule. If you haven't tried this demanding event yet, you get a second chance at 4:00 PM at the Student Center field (near the tunnel of the golf course). Top performances yesterday were turned in by Stork, Charlie Mead of England, and Nobuya Kobayashi of Japan.

NOW HEAR THIS: SNAP Join RIDERS OF THE WIND, the Field Events Players Association. See Micheal "C. Snap" Conger for more information, for a membership application, and for the latest newsletter: "TRADEWINDS." Prado Room 101 B.

TEMPE OR NOT TEMPE - IS THAT THE QUESTION? The Valley of the Sun invites everybody to its 6th annual State of Arizona Championships in early November. Come to Tempe and take the challenge of the desert. For more information, contact Eric Keim.

ORIENTATION MEETING REVIEW No doubt about it - one of the rowdiest ever. Still, Stork, Bob Gardner, Mark Danna, Tom Boda, Dan Mangone and Tom Boda managed to cover the areas needed to be mentioned.

The best quips came from Stork. Regarding the clinic for the general public after the Bowl, Stork said, " Hey, if when we ask the public for a handcount of how many plan to participate, we find it is too big, we all get on the first bus and get out of there. We have no responsibility to these people." About the use of euphoria-producing substances, Sotrk explained, " If you get caught here on campus, we have a problem. If you go to Venice and get caught, then it's your problem." To which someone repled, "Not if I tell them who I got it from." Referring to the sign-up sheets for freestyle, stuck up in the side wall's recesses, Stork said, " We have private sign up booths for those who are embarrassed - or excited." You had to be there.

Perhaps the most successful method for meeting and talking with other WFC competitors that we have ever had was a Tom Boda brainchild: the mini disc jigsaw puzzle. Cutting many discs into four pieces each, the segments were randomly tossed out. The object then was to locate the missing pieces to form a complete mini. For about a half hour the searches continued, and although many puzzles remained unsolved, everyone had a good time. There were winners. The first four people to find a mini were Dan Mangone, Tim Selinske, West Germany's Thomas Pelkowski, and mystery man Giorgio Vantol. Second were Leslie Pressnell, Australian Mark Powers, Joe Ursino, and Michael Conger. Third went to Sweden's Christer Fugelsang, England's Liz Reeve, Ken Bache and Mike Hughes. It's hard to imagine such foursomes getting together, crossing such geographical boundaries. And that was the beauty of the mini jigsaw puzzle.

DWORKING OVERTIME Late Monday evening in Otero lounge, John Dwork presented his, shall we be kind?, PG (Parental Guidance Suggested) rated slide show. How he convinced normally sane players to allow themselves to be photographed in such reputation-destroying poses we will never know. But the packed house certainly got a rise from the slides and John's accompanying commentary. The man is definitely a luny.

FLAPJACK GUTS "It's hard to be soft." So goes the description of this game in pre-WFC literature. Flapjack Guts preliminaries start tonight. Registration is $5.00. 2-person teams will vie for prize money, and the winner gets a trophy too. You must register by 7:30 PM. See Craig Cheply or Eric Keim to sign up.

MISSING IN ACTION Lost. 1 Casio C-80 Calculator Watch. Black Plastic band and case. Somewhere on DDC or Distance fields. If found, please turn into staff or Bryor Hendrix.

GUTS GLOVES TAKE DIVE 1 pair of women's guts gloves were left on the DDC field early Tuesday (yesterday) morning. If you know their whereabouts, see Bethany Porter, their owner, in Prado 203A.

WFC REVIEW SIGNS CARTOONIST A new feature of the WFC Review this year will be a daily cartoon and marginal sketches (marginal meaning "in the margins" not "of slight value".) by Stephen Bentley of Pasadena. Steve is a freelance cartoonist who has contributed to FRISBEE DISC WORLD and assorted sports magazines. He is an avid Frisbee Disc golfer, runner, ailurophile (read: "cat lover"). Actually, he loves nearly everything - obviously a crazy guy. (That's his quote).

GUTS ALL-STARS CHOSEN Joseph Youngman reports that on the basis of Guts trials yesterday evening, he, Andy Lemann, Van Miller, Tommy Viklund and John O'Malley will comprise the Guts All-Star team. Special congratulations to Tommy from Sweden for making the team. Alernates include Tim Selinske and Eric Marx.

The Swedish National Team will borrow Tommy back from the All-Stars when they face them and Foothill Saturday afternoon at 1:15 PM on the Athletic Fields.

DGA REGIONAL PROS There will be a Regional Pro meeting at tonight's dinner, gathering at one or two tables to discuss our mutual interests. Information and minis will be traded.

DAILY DONUTS In the DDC prelims, Kirkland/Selinske is playing Monroe/Robinson. Kirkland dumps a soft two-finger upside-down shot way past the end line, barely within sight. Ske looks over to the sidelines and explains, "John gets excited easily." Monroe fires back, "Yeah, that's why he got married."

Later in the match, Ske's fringe on his knee brace nearly gets hit by a Monroe throw, prompting Tom to ask, "Don't we get any fringe benefits?"

Pryor Hendrix nearly gave his DDC partner Dave Griffin apoplexy when he tried to trick catch an obviously-going-out-of-bounds throw that would have given them the game. The thing was, he missed the flying gitis. It hit him below the belt. Their opponents then scored the next 8 points. All was not lost, however. Pryor and Dave won the game. Their opponents? Certainly a dark horse - Rhodes and Youngman.

Speaking of gitis. There was another kind in DDC: laryngitis. Judy Horowitz had lost her voice. So to call "2,1, throw" she had an official do the voice. Imagine not being able to call your own game. Ask Judy about it - when she gets her voice back.

In distance, Pryor Hendrix, amazed by Van Miller's throws, quipped about a low throw, "Not too bad for a 110 meter guts shot." The next throw lofted too much. " Wow. Not too bad. A 110 meter airbounce."

One of the best DDC matches of the day took place in the crossover match between Krajna/Bloom and McInnis/Greensage. M/G won the first, 15-6. K/B rallied to win the 2nd, 19-17. In the 3rd, m/G started with a double to lead 2-0. Then K/B won 7 straight points. M/G then came from 2-7 to lead 12-9. At that point, about 12:20 PM, interested observer Scott Zimmerman said as he got up to leave, "That's the end of the game." Immediately, a double was scored, narrowing the game." Other spectators yelled out, "Hey, Scott. It's 12-11." "Well, congratulations to everybody," Scott yelled back sincerely. "That's hot. What do you want me to do? I'm going to lunch." And off he went. For those of you still wondering, the score went to 13 all before M/G clinched it 16-13.

4th ANNUAL LA MIRADA OPEN - RESULTS

The La Mirada Open, the annual final tune-up for WFC golf, was held last weekend, August 22 & 23. Under fine weather and organizational conditions, thanks to the disc gods and Dan Mangone respectively, two hundred sixty-two players played for a total purse of $2,700.

Saturday's 3 preliminary rounds advanced 79 players in the Open Division to Sunday's 36-hole final. With 3 dizen players shooting par or under, and the best being -8, it took a score of a couple over par just to qualify for the finals.

Saturday's highlight was a hole-in-one on hole #16 by Ross Snyder, runner-up in last year's WFC golf.

Sunday brought more sunshine and, by midmorning, a steady breeze. However, the wind did not seem to bother the eventual winner, Eric Marx of Danville, Illinois. Eric, who also won La Mirada in 1979, finished at a superb 10 under. The International Award, for the non-North American player with the lowest score, went to Derek Robins from England.

Winnings + places for the 4 divisions are listed below:

Yesterday's winner of a beautiful WFC oddity disc was the man who had a great day in Distance, proving that competing in the field and the trivia contest are possible. Of five entries submitted, the winning score was 95 points out of 100. Congratulations to none other than John Kirkland.

COLLECTRIVIA CONTEST #2 - WEDNESDAY EDITION

Again we will award a WFC oddity disc, worth about $30-40, to the person who scores the highest on the quiz. In case of ties, we will either award multiple prizes or will randomly draw a winner from the correct entries, depending on how we feel at the moment. Good luck.

This contest is worth loo points.
