THANK YOU, PARKS AND REC DEPT!!

A big thanks to the Parks and Rec Dept for a beautiful job of mowing at Kereiakes. A lot of work has gone into the complete mowing of the entire grounds, close mowing of the fairways including the new back nine, and weed-eating all around the trees and pole-holes. Let's give Kevin and the crew a big hand!

THE PRO TOUR

Relatively nearby tournaments on the World Tour '88, for this month include: Cincinnati (June 4-5), Indianapolis (June 11), Cedars of Lebanon (June 18-19), and Huntsville (June 25). All will be qualifiers for the World Championship in Cincinnati, so get out there and get your points!

SUPER TOUR '89

We are very proud to be listed in the latest issue of Disc Golfer Magazine as one of the top Pro Tour tournaments, and a possible Super Stop on the Super Tour '89. Next year the PDGA will promote the very top tournaments as a "Super Tour" and this will focus attention of the media and sponsors on these events. We expect the prize money of next year's BG Open to exceed $4000, and should have considerable added sponsorship money.

This year's BG Open had over $2400 in prize money, and drew 121 golfers from 10 states and Canada. The winners were Steve Wisecup, earning $382, and Vanessa Chambers, taking home $162.

WORLD STANDINGS

In case you haven't heard, Kentucky now dominates the World Tour Standings, holding down 1st position in all three categories! David Greenwell, of Louisville, has moved up to 1st in the Open Division with a commanding 64 point lead over Jim Akins (Georgia). Third place Carlton Howard (North Carolina) is a mere 115 points back.

Sylvia Voakes, of Bowling Green, has maintained her 1st place ranking in the Women's Division, with a 9 point lead over 1987 World Champion Vanessa Chambers (South Carolina). Third place Saundra Bosche (Arkansas) is 13 points back.

In the Masters Division, Dr Rick Voakes, of Bowling Green, maintains a comfortable lead of 75 points over former Masters World Champion John David (Georgia). Third place Royce Racinowski (New York) lags behind at 139 points back.

Pros are awarded a point for each other pro that they beat in a PDGA World Tour tournament for that year. The current year (87-88) will end July 10. Besides providing a ranking system, the points are used to determine who will qualify to compete at the World Championship each year.
